I just received a request from Erin Udell, a staff reporter for the Rocky Mountain Collegian, for an update on the status of The Grove, Project Development Plan. She said:

I was trying to write an article about the current status of the Grove apartment project. I've heard that they won't be building here anymore, and I was just checking to see if that was true and if you had any more details. I hope to hear back. Thanks!

My response to Erin was:

Campus Crest, the applicant/developer for the proposed The Grove student housing multi-family residential project, is still moving forward in the City's development review process. They submitted plan revisions to the City on March 30th to initiate a second round of review. There will be a staff review meeting between City staff and the developer this coming Wednesday morning, April 20th, to discuss their revised plans and determine what the next step will be in the City's process.
