Rhonda

Starry Night - 1st business south of the Cache LaPoudre Bank (southeast corner of Mountain & College). They started with a patio. Then they put the flower pots out. Now they have these chairs and tables. I can't even get through there sometimes. Also, I can't believe that people can be so arrogant and ignorant (Idiot with legs up). This woman refused to move her feet. I'm just livid at this merchant for doing this.

As far as Starbucks goes, I believe that this is a conscious act by management. I know people move those chairs and table, but to move them all in one row is a little to much to believe. I think they should chain these chairs and tables to the building.

Garrard - what's next with them - a bigger sign more in the way. Who gives them permission to do this?

I've had it with these merchants. I'm going to contact the Americans with Disabilities and my city council representative to see what we can do about stopping this insanity. I know you're between a rock and a hard place nad I appreciate all your help. Thanks.
